

Rebecca Puhl, PhD is Director of Research and Anti-Stigma Initiatives at the Rudd Center for Food Policy and Obesity at Yale University. Dr. Puhl is responsible for identifying and coordinating research and policy efforts aimed at reducing weight bias, and improving the quality of life of children and adults affected by obesity. Dr. Puhl has been conducting research on the topic of weight bias and prejudice for ten years, and has published a range of experimental studies, population-based studies, review papers, and chapters on this topic. Her recent publications address the prevalence and origins of weight stigma, interventions to reduce weight bias, and the impact of weight stigma on emotional and physical health. She has presented on these topics to academic, professional, and community groups across the country, and her research has received national and international media attention. Dr. Puhl serves as chair of the Weight Bias Task Force of The Obesity Society, and is an editor of the book Weight Bias: Nature, Extent, and Remedies (Guilford Press, 2005).
