

Jennifer Ripepi, MD

Dr. Ripepi is a community pediatrician with varied private practice experiences since completing her residency training. She began her career at a very busy suburban practice with two providers, which soon evolved into becoming part of a hospital network with seven providers in the same office. After leaving the suburban practice she joined a Rural Health Center as a part-time pediatrician working with an Internal Medicine doctor as well as a Family Practice Nurse Practitioner. In October 2006 she decided to open a solo practice in her rural home-town of Monongahela, Pennsylvania. Since it was a fresh start, she decided to incorporate the Electronic Medical Records system from the beginning. She became part of the EPIC-IC initiative soon after opening the practice. The Electronic Medical Records system has added a unique perspective on incorporating the Medical Home tools into the basic floor plan. In addition to being a practicing Pediatrician for nearly 20 years, she is also a mother of 4 children, two sons and two daughters.
